PCA History

The Pennsylvania Communication Association, originally called the Speech Communication Association of Pennsylvania, was founded in 1939 to promote teaching, research, service, and development of all areas of human communication. John Henry Frizzell of Pennsylvania State University was the first President. The state journal, Annual, is now in its 75th year. For more than 22 years, we have recognized important Pennsylvanians such as Fred Rogers (Mister Rogers), Governor William Scranton, Governor Edward G. Rendell, Lieutenant Governor Mark Schweiker, Dr. Sam Hazo (Poet Laureate of Pennsylvania), and others as outstanding speakers of the year. The Association recognizes its own members for their contributions to the field, as well as students and the many educational institutions in the state of Pennsylvania and beyond for their efforts in communication.

Dear Colleagues,

Welcome to historic York, Pennsylvania, to Penn State University's York campus. This year, we begin with a pre-conference planned by Dr. Isaac Catt and Dr. Deborah Eicher-Catt. The theme of this year's pre-conference is "Patterns of Connection: Gregory Bateson, American Pragmatism and European Philosophy." The keynote speakers are Dr. Klaus Krippendorff, Annenberg School for Communication, University of Pennsylvania and Dr. Vincent Colapietro, Pennsylvania State University.

The theme for this year's annual conference is "Translating our Communication Research into Practice." The Interest Council Chairs have accepted papers, panels, and posters that represent the diversity of our discipline. We are also excited to have Dr. Mary Anne Fitzpatrick, this year's Julia T. Wood award recipient, deliver our keynote address during the banquet on Saturday night. During the banquet, we will also honor other individuals for their efforts and achievements.

This year, we are trying something different at the conference. We have included two social media channels (Lanyrd and Twitter) into our conference. Please refer to the program for more information.

Kristina King, my research assistant who has also helped tremendously with planning the conference, has created a brochure that includes numerous brew pubs, restaurants, and other favorite hangouts that locals enjoy near the campus and in downtown York. In particular, on Saturday morning, we encourage you to visit the Central Market in downtown York. Central Market is located at 34 West Philadelphia Street, which is only a 10 minute walk from the Yorktown Hotel.

Last, and most importantly, I would ask everyone to take a moment to read the Acknowledgements page at the end of the program. Everyone who planned this conference did so by graciously volunteering his or her time in service to the Pennsylvania Communication Association. This conference could not have been planned without everyone's help, and for that I am thankful.

Joe Downing, Ph.D.
Vice President, Pennsylvania Communication Association

Translating our Communication Research and Theory into Practice: A View from the (Administrative) Dark Side

Mary Anne Fitzpatrick, University of South Carolina System

Mary Anne Fitzpatrick is an Educational Foundation Distinguished Professor of Psychology and the Vice President of the University of South Carolina System. The University of South Carolina System is a state university system of eight campuses set up in 1957 to expand the educational opportunities of the citizens of South Carolina as well as extend the reach of the University of South Carolina throughout the state. With almost 48,000 students at the eight campuses, the system is the largest institution of higher learning in the state of South Carolina.

Prior to her appointment as Vice President, Mary Anne served as the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of South Carolina for ten years, during which time she increased the size of the faculty; opened new centers, institutes and programs, stabilized external research grant funding at about $42 million a year; and took the college through one of the worst economic downturns in the history of South Carolina. Before arriving at the University of South Carolina, she was the Deputy Dean for the College of Letters and Science (2002-2004), Vice Provost and Special Assistant to the Chancellor (1999-2001) on Distributed Learning, and Senior Associate Dean in L&S (1997-2001) at the University of Wisconsin-Madison where she also held the WARF Kellett Professorship. Fitzpatrick was named (2012) a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Sciences (AAAS). A past President of the International Communication Association (ICA), Fitzpatrick received its 2001 Career Achievement Award for sustained excellence in communication research. In 1993, she was elected a Fellow of the same association, one of only 25 in the world at the time. Fitzpatrick also served as the President of the Council of Colleges of Arts and Sciences, the largest Arts and Sciences Deans Association in America (2012-2013). An internationally recognized authority on interpersonal communication, Fitzpatrick is the author of over 100 articles, chapters and books. The NIH, NIMH, and the Spencer Foundation have supported her research. An award winning teacher, she is often invited to give lectures and presentations in this country and abroad, and to consult with government and educational institutions.

PCA's Social Media Tools

At this year's conference, we encourage participants to use two social networking tools:

1. Lanyrd
2. Twitter

Tweet! The conference hashtag is #PCA2015York

<http://lanyrd.com/>

At this year's conference, we will also be using a web tool called Lanyrd. Lanyrd.com and the Lanyrd app represent a free online conference tool for conference attendees and speakers. With Lanyrd, users can find the conference schedule, meet other attendees, and post documents. Lanyrd is user friendly and easy to navigate. Lanyrd.com (online version) offers expanded features not available on the app. The app is useful to view each conference session at PCA. Alternatively, the online version offers added capability to network at our conference. The online version (lanyrd.com) works seamlessly on any smartphone, tablet, or laptop.

Once you have registered (see instructions below) and have indicated your attendance, you can view each panel at our conference. As a speaker, you can upload documents, videos, or slides. When attending a session, you can share your thoughts through Twitter, Facebook, or LinkedIn. Each session in our conference program is exportable to your icalendar, iPhone, Outlook calendar, or Google calendar. After the PCA conference has ended, you can connect with conference attendees through the app for professional social networking.

Acknowledgements

Each year, Pennsylvania Communication Association (PCA) members volunteer their valuable time to make our annual conference a success. This year has proved no exception. In particular, I would like to recognize the time-consuming work of each Interest Council Chair. Further, Dr. Pat Arneson was always gracious with her time and I appreciated her wisdom planning the conference. Dr. Ronald C. Arnett and his team of associates, in particular Mrs. Rita McCaffrey and Mrs. Hannah Karolak provided invaluable administrative assistance throughout the year.

I would also like to thank Dr. David Chown, Chancellor of Penn State York, for his generous financial support for this year's conference.

Finally, a heartfelt thank you to Ms. Kristina King, my undergraduate research assistant. Every faculty member should be so fortunate to have such a mature and organized individual on their team.
